Where Psychology Meets Architecture

The mind behind George Ranalli Architect

Anne Valentino, PhD

Psychologist • COO of George Ranalli Architect

A longtime force behind the firm, Valentino brings behavioral science, environmental psychology, and human insight into the design process—helping shape spaces that think about how people actually live, feel, and move.

On Architectural Context: "Every project becomes part of a continuum—where materials, craft, scale, and technology are reinterpreted to bridge generations of design".

On NYC Development: "[There are] all these glass buildings ... Unpleasant-looking buildings, I'm afraid to say. Or you have this 'replica' thing... there's no in-between".

ON URBAN DESIGN

"Great cities are not created by choosing between past and present, but by designing where they meet".
